ALEX DELLA VECCHIA

Piave, Veneto

Farming vineyards in the shadows of the Dolomites, Alex Della Vecchia is proving himself to be a prodigious talent.

Having learned his craft alongside the late, great Ernesto Cattel of Costadilà, a highly respected, humble visionary who was single handedly responsible for preserving the traditions of the Prosecco of old, Alex began his own project, Ombretta Agricola in 2017.

In 2010 he planted one and a half hectares of Pinot Nero on his family's farm in Belluno, right at the foot of the Dolomites. This dramatic vineyard surrounded by mountains is planted over alluvial marl some six hundred metres above sea level, near the banks of the River Piave. His family live in an old monastery which dates back to the 16th Century, keeping donkeys, goats and cows alongside the vines. The wines from this site are named Pedecastello, after the road that winds amongst the mountains.

A little further down the river in San Donà di Piave, Alex farms four hectares of Verduzzo Trevigiano, Merlot and Cabernet Sauvignon. Here the vines are thirty years old and planted over alluvial soils, just two hundred metres above and twenty kilometres from the Adriatic. These wines are bottled eponymously, as Ombretta Agricola. Each year, he also sources organic grapes from friends elsewhere in Italy to make his easygoing 'Grinton' wines, a tribute to the rustic vino da tavola of old.

GRINTON CHARDONNAY MOVEST

This wonderful sparkling Chardonnay comes from a twenty year old vineyard planted over clay and limestone in the Colli Euganei. Whilst half of the fruit was pressed directly, the remainder was macerated for five days, and after fermentation the blend rested in vat until the following spring before being moved to bottle with a little juice from the same harvest. The resulting wine is a gorgeous, hazy yellow in the glass, its bubbles carry notes of stone fruits, chalk and minerals. A vibrant col fondo from one of the masters of the style.
