VALFACCENDA

Roero, Piemonte

Luca Faccenda grew up in the hills of Roero and his family has for many years been making wines in Valfaccenda, a small valley between Canale and Cisterna.

Proud of the area and knowing each kink and dip by name, Luca has no desire to emulate the wines of more famous neighbours in the nearby Langhe.

He is aware that the steep, sandy slopes here have little in common with the rolling, gentle landscape found south of the Tanaro river. The hills he calls home produce wines of a different kind, perfumed and pretty and often charming in their youth.

Luca works, alone and by hand, his often perilously steep vineyards organically and in the cellar he takes no short cuts, striving to make wines that speak of these hills. Solo Roero, nothing else.

ROERO NEBBIOLO

A wonderful example of just how unique Nebbiolo from this part of the world can be when in the right hands. From vines young and old planted over steep, sandy slopes. This spends about a month on skins with some whole bunches, before being pressed off to old casks for eighteen months. From a warmer vintage, this is already open and expressive, with delicate aromatics, great balance and fine tannins.
