MORGANE TURLIER

La Chapelle-sur-Furieuse, Jura

Morgane Turlier is one of the most promising young winemakers in the Jura today.

Having worked for many years alongside her friend Etienne Thiebaud of Domaine des Cavarodes, Morgane now works alone, tending around two hectares of old vines planted with all the Jurassic varieties spread across small parcels in La Chapelle sur Furieuse, Buffard, Chamoiz, Marnoz and Cramans.

Much like her mentor, Morgane has a sensitive approach to farming and feels most at home in the vines. Her parcels are worked by horse and treated with nothing more than a little copper, sulphur and herbal teas.

Her humble cave forms part of a cooperative farming project she runs with friends in La Chapelle, and Morgane works simply, aiming merely to guide the grapes along their way. She adds nothing and takes nothing away, producing pure, lively wines that carry a beautiful sense of place. It is fair to say that the future looks very bright for this most talented young vigneronne.

SAVAGNIN DE CHAMOZ

Savagnin from a tiny plot of vines up to sixty years old in Chamoz planted over Kimmeridgian limestone. The grapes were pressed directly, before spending two years resting in old barriques. A wine of great structure and real purity, it combines delicate notes of citrus, stones, earth and spice to dizzying effect. Delicious now, this will age wonderfully over the coming years.
